ANNUAL REPORTS

ALSTEAD, N. H.,

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING

CLAREMONT, N. H.

COLD RIVER JOURNAL PRESS.

1894.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Our schools the past year have generally been well supported by the people and we have the pleasure of reporting a good degree of prosperity. The educational interests of the town are well sustained, financially, and are in condition to warrant the hope of continued success.

A few pupils have been provided for in neighboring localities at a small expense, and a moderate sum has been expended for transportation. With one exception houses in which schools have been maintained are in good repair and can be kept so at little cost. Most of our teachers have had previous successful experience, and almost without exception have done commendable work.

The average attendance for the winter terms has, in several instances, been much reduced by sickness, but we fear that in some cases pupils have been absent from causes fully under control. If parents and pupils would truly appreciate the value of promptness, and teachers would labor zealously at all times to make the school-room and its exercises attractive, an improved record of attendance would result. Many schools, however, present a satisfactory record. We commend the example of No. 13 as showing what a little effort, properly directed, will accomplish. Six of the seven pupils in each term have their names upon the roll of honor. A few others have done nearly as well. The number of scholars, according to the enumeration of the selectmen in April, 1893, was 51 boys and 50 girls.

Parents should visit their schools often, and encourage teacher and scholars by their active co-operation and sympathy. It is not from a lack of interest that the names of many parents do not appear upon the list of visitors, but that the habit of looking in upon the school has not been formed.

Teachers who enter upon their duties with enthusiasm, devoting all their energies to the work they undertake, keeping fully in line with those methods which study and experience approve, and maintaining in the school-room respectful and willing obedience,—to such can safely be confided the important trust of leading and directing the youthful mind, and such only should aspire to the teacher's profession.

Pupils should remember at all times that it is only through diligence and perseverance that they can hope to succeed. Others may aid but they cannot do the work. The mind is disciplined by untiring effort to wonderful accuracy and rapidity of movement, but it can be done only through long continued effort,—a purpose that never falters. Idleness in the school-room is little less than crime. He who is addicted to it must pay the penalty of his folly. No guilty one escapes.

Have you a mind well stored and disciplined to meet with confidence the duties of active life? Are you satisfied that your present attainments in knowledge are all that you will ever need? If not when will your opportunities be better than now? Can you, then, afford to waste valuable time in idleness? If you have a longing for something higher and better than you are now able to grasp, the opportunity is before you; let it be well improved.

Many of the items required by law to be reported to the citizens of the town will be found in the tables accompanying this report. For a better understanding of the work that is being accomplished we would suggest to each and all a visit to the school.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. A. MAYO, School Board of Alstead.
